Session Topics

WORKSHOP ONE

SELF-AWARENESS AND THE LEADERSHIP FUNCTION (PART ONE)

Session 1.1: Transitioning into Supervisory Roles; Leadership Styles

Becoming a supervisor for the first time is one of the most difficult transitions in the workplace. It can be an overwhelming experience. Knowing how to apply a key set of tools and skills can ease this transition considerably. Further, having a good understanding of leadership styles and how to apply them in the workplace can bolster the opportunity for success. There are many definitions of leadership and many different styles. This first session will focus on establishing a common framework for the leadership work and discussions that will occur within the program. Leadership is challenging but the desired outcome is really quite simple: achieve results. That's what leaders are in place to do. Results, however, are only achieved with and through the commitment of the people we lead.

OBJECTIVES:

- Identify and apply leadership characteristics
- Create a motivating workplace environment
- Effectively communicate at all levels of the organization
- Learn and apply your individual leadership style
- Demonstrate resilience through emotional intelligence

Session 1.2: Understanding Personality Types

The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) reinforces the concept that every individual is unique. The value of MBTI (and personality theory in general) is that it enables participants to expect differences in people and to cope with those differences more constructively than they otherwise could. This knowledge will help participants be better team members, leaders, and decision makers. They will learn that type does not define who they are as a person nor does it limit their ability to act in ways counter to their preferences. Rather, knowledge of their preferences allows them to know when it is appropriate to act counter to those preferences in order to be successful.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand normal personality differences
- Determine your best-fit "true-type" using the MBTI and a series of interactive exercises on type differences
- Learn how personality type impacts leadership style and effectiveness
- Gain insight into how personality differences can be used to build and maintain effective teams

Session Topics (continued)

WORKSHOP TWO

SELF-AWARENESS AND THE LEADERSHIP FUNCTION (PART TWO)

Session 2.1: Emotional Intelligence and Interpersonal Effectiveness

In this interactive session, participants will increase their understanding of emotional intelligence and how a greater awareness increases their interpersonal effectiveness and their ability to be a more effective leader, manager, and public servant. Participants will explore the background of emotional intelligence, take a behavioral-based personal EQ (Emotional Quotient) assessment, and learn skills to apply their EQ awareness in the workplace. The program will cover intrapersonal and interpersonal intelligence as well as one's ability to understand the intentions, motivations, fears, desires of others and self, and the impact on our lives and the decisions we make. EQ concepts and applications will be explored using the widely regarded Emotional Quotient Inventory Assessment EQi 2.0.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the concept of "Emotional Intelligence"
- User emotional intelligence to improve resilience
- Raise awareness of personal emotional intelligence competencies
- Explore emotional intelligence as a leadership competency
- Discover how emotional intelligence can enhance work performance
- Practice tools that improve emotional intelligence as a method for leading Session

Session 2.2: Personal Effectiveness: Time Management

The most common time management problem is that people are reactive rather than proactive. Rather than acting towards long-term goals, they react to external pressures. This workshop teaches participants how to reverse this process. Through stimulating and interactive participation and analysis of their own data, participants learn a set of tools which they can apply on a continuing basis.

OBJECTIVES:

- Achieve better results through more effective planning and clarifying objectives
- Spend more time doing tasks that will allow participants to achieve their end goals
- Use time management tools more effectively
- Use less time putting out fires each day

WORKSHOP TWO

SELF-AWARENESS AND THE LEADERSHIP FUNCTION (PART TWO)

SESSION 2.3: DELEGATION

Supervisors who can effectively delegate can free up a great deal of their own time and help their direct reports to cultivate expertise in learning. At the same time, employees can learn to self-empower and increase their own decision making ability — a skill set that is critical for problem solving, goal attainment, learning, and engagement.

In this workshop, a set of skills and tools are taught that enable employees to make their own decisions while increasing supervisor confidence that employees are moving forward with a clear understanding of expectations and the limits and conditions under which the decisions are made. Through discussion, practice, and interactive exercises participants will learn how to put these skills to use in creating the most effective workplace environment.

OBJECTIVES:

- Learn how to effectively use a proven delegation model
- Learn to self-motivate and self-empower

WORKSHOP THREE

UNDERSTANDING AND COLLABORATING WITH OTHERS (PART ONE)

Session 3.1: Interpersonal Communications; Giving and Receiving Feedback

Improving our ability to communicate and collaborate raises the bar on professionalism, effectiveness, efficiency, and overall ability to influence others. It is impossible to be an effective leader without being an effective communicator.

OBJECTIVES:

- Become effective and principled negotiators
- Gain tools for finding common ground
- Learn to help yourself and others focus on interests and not take unreasonable positions

Session 3.2: Conflict Management

It is impossible to be truly effective in the workplace without the assistance and cooperation of others. Such interdependence, however, can produce conflict, which can be very difficult to resolve in a productive way. Resolving conflict in a way that helps people find common ground and mutual understanding is a critical leadership skill. Finding a resolution that satisfies conflicting priorities can stimulate new approaches to old problems. Innovation is often a by-product of well-managed conflict.

OBJECTIVES:

- Identify your personal conflict management style and how it helps and hinders resolution of conflict
- Increase your confidence in dealing with conflict
- Turn conflict situations into opportunities to communicate openly and effectively

Session Topics (continued)

WORKSHOP THREE

UNDERSTANDING AND COLLABORATING WITH OTHERS (PART ONE)

Session 3.3: Negotiations and Persuasion

Whether they realize it or not, leaders are constantly negotiating — with customers, peers, subordinates and bosses. Effective negotiators get what they need while being focused on the needs of the other party. Finding a resolution that satisfies conflicting priorities can stimulate new approaches to old problems. Innovation is often a by-product of well-managed conflict.

This workshop session provides tools and techniques to find common ground while uncovering how each party sees the issues, and how to reach an equitable agreement on what should be done, who should do what, and when. Participants in this workshop will learn how to build on their knowledge of conflict and negotiate agreement without giving in. They will also learn to influence upwards in support of projects and organizational goals.

Objectives:

- Become effective and principled negotiators
- Gain tools for finding common ground
- Learn to help yourself and others focus on interests and not take unreasonable positions

WORKSHOP FOUR

UNDERSTANDING AND COLLABORATING WITH OTHERS (PART TWO)

Session 4.1: Innovation in Public Service

Leadership is entirely about learning, and continuing to expand our own and our organization's horizons. No one is put in a leadership role with the mandate to maintain status quo. Innovation is necessary for teams and organizations to grow. Unfortunately, for government leaders, their ability to innovate can feel limited due to the laws, rules, and regulations under which they operate. As a consequence, leaders may "self-limit" and not step into innovation as well as they might have otherwise. This session of the workshop will explore how to be innovative and creative within the bounds of public service.

Objectives:

- Create an innovative mindset toward problem solving
- Identify cultural elements in public service that serve to foster or inhibit innovation
- Learn to manage risk in pursuing innovative approaches
- Secure management support and commitment

Session 4.2: Coaching Skills for Supervisors

Growing leaders of tomorrow requires engaging with employees in new and different ways -- making the choice to interact with them through a different kind of conversation. Coaching is about application of learning and positive, visible change. Through coaching, employees develop their own critical thinking skills.

Objectives:

- Understand what makes a leader a good coach
- Foster a culture of coaching

WORKSHOP FOUR

UNDERSTANDING AND COLLABORATING WITH OTHERS (PART TWO)

Session 4.3: Motivation

It is very difficult to motivate others; most motivation comes from within. Yet some leaders have the ability to motivate and inspire others to do great things. This session will explore how effective leaders create and sustain the environment that fosters the self-motivation necessary for organizational success.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand their role as leaders in providing vision, visibility and momentum to create a self-motivating culture
- Use the four key elements of effective recognition to motivate and inspire
- Learn why and how most recognition programs miss the mark
- Gain insight into how recognition serves to create a workplace environment that increases morale and productivity

Session 4.4: Diversity Awareness

This session focuses on what diversity and inclusion are and why they are critical to mission accomplishment. Participants will learn the business case for diversity and inclusion and discuss some of the gaps that their agency and organization have in meeting their goals. Participants will be introduced to concepts that allow them to explore their own unconscious biases and how behaviors are manifested from these preferences. They will develop a working definition of diversity and how it applies to their organization. The workshop will also delve into the language of diversity and how to be more inclusive with communication and behaviors.

OBJECTIVES:

- Create strategies for leading and managing a diverse workforce
- Identify the changes occurring in the workforce and how those changes impact us
- Analyze how your socialization influences your interpersonal behaviors and skills
- Understand fundamental values differences between different generations and how these play out in the workplace

WORKSHOP FIVE

KEY BUSINESS ACUMEN

Session 4.1: Analysis and Problem Solving

This workshop explores analysis and problem solving by tackling the most difficult problems of all: the application of personal values and ethics to decision making. The interactive session, based on the book, How Good People Make Tough Choices, involves lecture and small group work, explores the most challenging decisions an individual faces - right versus right decisions. Additionally, participants will learn other decision making models and when it is appropriate to use those models. They will develop their own and their subordinates' problem solving skills.

OBJECTIVES:

- Learn to analyze and resolve right versus right ethical dilemmas
- Develop skills to make decisions when deeply held values are in conflict
- Learn to be a more decisive and effective decision maker
- Learn to develop their own, as well as subordinates', problem solving skills

Session 4.2: Strategic Thinking and Managing Change

Strategic thinking and organizational change management is the process of developing a planned approach to leading change in an organization. Typically the objective is to maximize the collective benefits for all people involved in the change and minimize the risk of failure of implementing the change. The discipline of change management deals primarily with the human aspect of change.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the importance of a strategic approach to organizational growth and development
- Learn various change models and how to apply them in the workplace
- Gain an increased understanding of how to get beyond resistance and build support for change

Suggested Prerequisites	None
Recommended Follow-up Courses	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Executive Leadership Program

Delivery Formats:

We customize our delivery to meet your specific requirements. This program is typically delivered in five two-day sessions, which can be scheduled consecutively or spaced according to your needs. The program can be delivered in a hybrid (mix of in-person and online) version. We recommend the following assessments be administered prior to individual sessions: a 360 degree assessment, the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI), the Thomas-Kilmann Instrument, and the emotional Quotient Inventory Assessment (EQ-i 2.0).

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

Today's agency executives are faced with many tough challenges, including: the need to make quick decisions, a rapidly and constantly changing environment, a consistent requirement to be "on stage" while delivering a credible message, and the challenge of building coalitions both within the organization and externally. Taking time out to increase self-awareness and sharpen one's leadership skill set is crucial for success.

SESSION DESCRIPTION:

This leadership development workshop includes an executive coaching component and is composed of five two-day sessions that may be delivered on a schedule that fits your organizational needs.

In Session One, "Ethics, Integrity, and Courageous Decision Making", participants will be introduced to the program, their 360 assessment instruments, and their executive coaches. They will also begin creating leadership development plans, and will explore practical ethics with a focus on making difficult "right vs. right" ethical choices.

In Session Two, "Executive Presence", executives will learn to enhance their credibility and convey the agency's message skillfully, confidently, and persuasively through a series of videotaped practice presentations with feedback from a professional coach. Session Three, "Expanding Organizational Impact", will focus on sharpening participants' skill in collaboration.

In Session Four, "Investing in Talent", participants will leverage their own experiences with their assigned executive coaches to develop coaching skills of their own. Finally in Session Five, "Strategic Thinking and Accountability", participants will develop a set of tools to facilitate a shift from the tactical, day-to-day, and short-term to the strategic, visionary, anticipatory, and long-term through the use of scenario planning.

Session Topics

WORKSHOP ONE

INTEGRITY AND ETHICAL LEADERSHIP

The program kick-off and orientation will set the stage for the entire program. This is an opportunity for the Executive Leadership Team to identify the organizational goals of the program and reiterate their commitment to learning and professional development. It's also an opportunity for participants to get to know one another, identify their personal goals for the program, and commit to assisting their colleagues in achieving success. In addition to these overarching goals, the session will:

- Provide a program overview
- Connect participants to executive coaches
- Introduce the 360 assessment and how to maximize its use
- Begin the creation of leadership development plans

The workshop portion will focus on "practical ethics." In our society, we've conflated ethics with laws, policies and regulation to a simple understanding of right versus wrong. A long recitation of "do's and don'ts" isn't ethics, it is rules, policy, and law. Ethics is much more than that; ethics is about making decisions and building relationships. Following a list of rules doesn't help in either case.

While an ethical person certainly would choose the right thing when presented with a choice between right and wrong, what leaders really need is the ability to choose between two rights. That's the higher level of ethics and that is what we particularly need senior members of organizations to be able to do.

Ethics and character are the foundation of effective leadership. That foundation is demonstrated through action and, in particular, decision making. Leaders make tough decisions every day. The toughest decisions are those that put deeply held values in conflict. This is especially true in the Federal government where leaders are constantly balancing multiple agendas, rights of future generations, agency policy, and the interests of numerous stakeholders. The "right thing to do" for these decision makers is further compounded when the right thing to do collides with the political thing to do.

Federal government decision and policy makers are faced with these complex decisions on a daily basis. This workshop provides the foundation for ethical leadership and courageous decision making. Even more important, it gives leaders a foundation to stand on in tough times. In a world of unremitting change, leaders must display unremitting character, integrity, and courageousness when faced with their toughest decisions.

OBJECTIVES:

- Increase decision making ability
- Discover shared organizational and personal values
- Analyze and resolve "right versus right" ethical dilemmas

WORKSHOP TWO

SPREADING THE MESSAGE-EFFECTIVE ORAL COMMUNICATIONS

Senior executives are always on stage; they are continually evaluated, judged, critiqued and appraised for their ability to effectively convey the message of their organization. Their stage may be Capitol Hill in front of a congressional committee or it may be in front of a small group of employees who are asking what's in store for the Department in the upcoming year. At all times, they need to convey confidence, poise, and professionalism when engaging audiences in order to put their organization (and themselves) in the best possible light. An ability to communicate ideas persuasively is at the heart of effective leadership, and never more so than for senior executives. Yet this skill set is often neglected or taken for granted.

The ability to represent themselves and their organization in the best possible light is a strong attribute of effective leaders. Leaders must be able to "sell" their organization to stakeholders and customers in order to ensure they receive the resources they need to achieve their mission. Further, leaders must be able to connect with bosses, peers, and subordinates in both formal and informal settings. This ability to "connect" often spells the difference between effective communications and wasted time.

Participants will make four recorded presentations (of increasing complexity) in front of the cohort then receive one-on-one feedback from a professional coach. The ability to see oneself as a presenter, and understand the positive impact of strong presentation skills, reinforces the importance of establishing and maintaining a strong connection when communicating. The greatest idea in the world will go unheard without the ability to connect, influence, inspire and persuade. These traits are at the heart of effective senior executive leadership.

OBJECTIVES:

- Establish strong connections and enhance credibility as a communicator
- Organize presentations to get the message across
- Increase confidence in making presentations.
- Deliver high impact presentations
- Give and receive elevating feedback

WORKSHOP THREE

CONFLICT MANAGEMENT, NEGOTIATIONS, AND COALITION BUILDING

Throughout their time in Federal service, from employee to supervisor, to senior leader and executive, these senior executives have learned to manage conflict and use it as a springboard to more effective decision making and problem solving. Resolving conflict in a way that helps people find common ground and mutual understanding is a critical leadership skill, particularly for senior executives. Finding a resolution that satisfies conflicting priorities can stimulate new approaches to old problems. Innovation is often a by-product of well-managed conflict. In addition, successful conflict management approaches can minimize risk by gathering multiple perspectives and enhance understanding and collaboration throughout the organization.

This workshop will build on the conflict and negotiations skills these senior leaders have developed over their career and take it to the next level: how to build effective coalitions. The 21st century requires real collaboration and teamwork as well as a bringing together of all the knowledge, issues, possible solutions, and the needs and funding of multiple, well-informed stakeholders. Senior executives need to build coalitions, both within their organizations and with other governmental as well as private stakeholders.

Coalition building is needed when one organization recognizes it alone does not have the resources or people power to have a real impact on an issue. Coalitions assist in setting priorities for action, helping to identify specific data and informational needs from other groups and agencies, sharing resources and expertise, and broadening the development of new audiences.

OBJECTIVES:

- Identify your personal conflict management style and how it helps and hinders resolution of conflict
- Learn to manage conflict — and use it positively
- Become effective and principled negotiators
- Develop skills to build and maintain strategic coalitions
- Create coalitions that serve the interests of all parties

WORKSHOP FOUR INVESTING IN TALENT

There are many ways to develop others: have them attend training; mentor them; provide new opportunities; etc. Senior executives are familiar with and have employed these elements to help their subordinates be successful. This workshop will provide a new set of skills for developing others. Senior leaders have a responsibility to help their subordinates develop their critical thinking abilities. They have a responsibility to create strong decision-makers who are able to learn and grow. The best way to provide this development is through coaching.

Executives in this program have coaches assigned to them. This workshop will build on that experience and provide participants the ability to coach those who work for them. Coaching engages employees' own unique knowledge and experiences to help them figure out how to solve problems. Coaching utilizes objectivity, curiosity and powerful questions to engage employees and this workshop provides senior executives the ability to assume this important role. The questions serve as catalysts to unlock employees own experiences, training, and background and apply them to wise decision-making and an appropriate course of action. Coaching also trains an employee to more effectively receive and utilize constructive feedback.

Through a coaching conversation, employees identify the steps to take to achieve a specific goal or course correction, and a timeframe in which to take those steps. This workshop will help participants learn how to walk through this accountability process and use it as an additional learning and communication tool.

Participants will gain powerful new communication tools that create stronger, more confident employees with initiative, creativity and enhanced decision-making skills. Leaders who coach rather than direct, experience more significant returns on their investment in employee development. They also enjoy a significant increase in their own satisfaction with their management role.

Develop a coaching mindset not only helps senior leaders develop others more effectively, it enhances their own leadership skills as well.

OBJECTIVES:

- Help subordinates develop critical thinking skills
- Improve the impact of developmental opportunities
- Hold powerful coaching conversations
- Link the purpose and results of coaching to achieving organizational results
- Create and foster a culture of coaching for success

WORKSHOP FIVE

STRATEGIC THINKING AND ACCOUNTABILITY

In these turbulent budgetary times, the need for a strategic perspective grows increasingly important. While these can be seen as difficult, even dangerous, times for government agencies the future is also full of opportunities. Strategic thinkers give these opportunities life and capitalize on them. In today's rapidly changing environment, leaders need broad perspective, vision, and an intrinsic awareness of the trends and developments shaping their work.

This workshop will provide leaders with a set of tools that will facilitate a shift from the tactical, day-to-day and short-term to the strategic, visionary, anticipatory and long-term through the use of scenario planning. At the same time, it will serve to reinforce the importance of those day to day, short-term focused activities that actually move the organization forward. Strategic thinking is only effective to the extent that it leads to action.

The rapid pace of change has made it increasingly difficult to predict the future, especially beyond the next few years. Leaders, however, still need to make decisions for their organizations which have long-term implications. Traditional strategic planning focuses on identifying and describing one most probable or likely future and then developing a strategy which will allow the organization to succeed in that future. The effort usually entails a review of external forces and some detailed modeling of price, cost, and other variables. Unfortunately, in the current rapidly changing environment, many organizations have seen the fundamental underpinnings of their assumptions collapse while they waited for their most probable future to emerge.

The scenario planning process systematically explores the uncertainty inherent in looking at the longterm future. The process involves developing a set of alternative descriptions of the future which differ from each other in fundamental ways via differences in technology, consumer expectations, or other factors. The goal of developing these multiple scenarios is not to improve the odds of correctly predicting the future, but rather to allow managers to fully understand the driving forces affecting the future. By understanding and recognizing these driving forces, the ability of managers to plan for alternative operating environments and to react to change is enhanced.

The emphasis for this workshop is to increase awareness of the importance of strategic thinking and provide the necessary background and skills to effectively put that thinking to work to form plans in advance of change and bring the organization along as changes occur.

WORKSHOP FIVE

STRATEGIC THINKING AND ACCOUNTABILITY

These skills need to be overlain with a sense of political savvy that enables success and helps leaders hold themselves and their organizations accountable for results. Accomplishing the goals and objectives of any organization requires more than just smart people who work hard. It requires the political savvy to know how to forge alliances and avoid animosities in order to be effective. This workshop presents participants with a radical challenge—to understand all the unspoken things which can quickly derail their efforts and agendas as well as their careers. Participants learn to become a master of organizational politics while remaining positive, affirming of themselves and others, and being wholly devoted to making them, their fellow leaders, and their organization more effective and accountable.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the multiplicity of factors (economic, budgetary, regulatory, political, social, etc.) that impact government organizations
- Develop a set of likely scenarios that account for and embrace uncertainty while providing strategic focus and direction
- Learn and apply the "Forty Rules of Positive" regarding organizational politics
- Build politically savvy relationships within and external to the Department

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

Leadership is largely about influence. Leaders must be able to influence those who work for them to accomplish the mission and goals of the organization. Typically the organization provides a nice set of tools to help accomplish this. Yet all leaders are faced on occasion with the need to “tell truth to power” and influence up the chain of command. Some leaders do this well others less so.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

There is both an art and a science to influencing upwards that can be learned. This workshop will provide the necessary skills, knowledge, and ability to both get your ideas heard and do it in a way that serves the organization, your boss, and your own team.

OBJECTIVES:

- Present ideas positively and persuasively

Team leaders need tools to employ in such circumstances if they are to be successful in their new roles.

BUSINESS NEED:

Leaders can be defined in a moment, or over a period of years. Effective leaders acknowledge that it is preparation that can quietly or quickly advance them or result in a career-ending move. Leaders do fail at times, and the study of these situations can provide us with valuable lessons in leadership.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This workshop will explore case studies of leaders and public figures that were faced with defining moments in their leadership legacy and came up short. While most of our day-to-day decisions and situations don't rise to this level of consequence, we can learn a great deal by looking at what each leader faced, the options they had, and the paths they took. Afterward, we will then explore alternative paths and outcomes based on today's leadership principles.

OBJECTIVES:

- Explore contemporary lessons in leadership
- Understand what causes leaders to fail
- Examine the application of contemporary leadership models
- Help build "muscle memory" to better prepare and respond to leadership challenges

Course Schedule

BUSINESS NEED:

Leaders make tough decisions every day. The toughest decisions are those that put deeply held values in conflict. Making the right decision is easy when there's a clear distinction between right and wrong, but often the distinction isn't so obvious. This workshop provides the foundation for courageous decision making. Even more important, it gives leaders a foundation to stand on in tough times. In a world of unremitting change, leaders must display unremitting character, integrity, and courage when faced with their toughest decisions.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Courageous and values-based decision making can create the atmosphere that allows judgments to be made within the context of vision, mission, and agency goals. Put simply, this workshop provides leaders with the ability to make better decisions. Even the most challenging decisions are less gut-wrenching if they flow from common well thought-out values, clear priorities, and strategic agreement. Through case studies, reflection, exercises, and lively discussion, participants learn the importance of values-based decision making based on the organization's mission and develop a set of useful tools to put that learning into action. This workshop is presented in partnership with the Institute for Global Ethics.

OBJECTIVES:

- Expand awareness of why courageous decision making matters to leaders and decision makers
- Learn to analyze and resolve right versus right dilemmas in a courageous, forthright, and thoughtful manner

Course Topics

THE ETHICS OF RIGHT VS. RIGHT

- Two real-life case studies which go to the heart of courageous decision making

WHY ETHICS MATTERS

- How changing expectations of leadership, a more transparent society, and the influence of technology are making ethics and ethical decision making increasingly important for leaders

- Examine and apply four "dilemma paradigms" which help to see choices more clearly

ENSURING COURAGE

Decision making is at the very heart of effective leadership. The ability to make important decisions in a timely manner often spells the difference between success and failure for individuals and organizations. How do effective decision makers operate? What are the criteria they consider? How do they conduct analysis without getting bogged down? How do leaders learn to be decisive without coming across as "shooting from the hip?"

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This workshop will examine the answers to these and other questions. Participants will examine both classic decision making models as well as gain insight into the latest decision making tools and applications. They'll have the opportunity to practice both individual and group decision making through a series of interactive, challenging, and enjoyable learning exercises and case studies. The workshop provides an intuitive and usable framework for making important organizational and individual decisions. Participants will leave the workshop feeling more confident in their decision making abilities and in their overall skill as leaders.

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

It's impossible to be truly effective in the workplace without the assistance and cooperation of others. Such interdependence, however, can produce conflict. Resolving conflict in a way that helps people find common ground and mutual understanding is a critical leadership skill. Unfortunately, many people are afraid of conflict so conflict goes underground, sabotaging projects, and destroying team spirit.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This workshop provides tools and techniques to find common ground while uncovering perspectives on how each party sees the issues, and how to reach an equitable agreement on what should be done, by whom, and when. Participants in this workshop will learn how to address conflict and negotiate agreement without giving in. They will also learn to influence upwards in support of projects and organizational goals.

OBJECTIVES:

- Identify your personal conflict management style and how it helps and hinders resolution of conflict
- Learn to manage conflict and use it positively
- Increase your confidence in dealing with conflict
- Turn conflict situations into opportunities to communicate openly and effectively
- Become an effective and principled negotiator
- Gain tools for finding common ground
- Learn to help yourself and others focus on interests and not take unreasonable positions

Course Topics

SOURCES OF CONFLICT

- Sharing stories of leadership failure
- Identify common elements

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

No one is put in a leadership role with the mandate to maintain status quo. Innovation is necessary for teams and organizations to fulfill their mission under changing circumstances. Effective leaders understand this, and strive to expand their own and their organization's horizons. Unfortunately, for government leaders, their ability to innovate can feel limited due to the laws, rules, and regulations under which they operate. As a consequence, leaders may "self-limit" and not step into innovation as well as they might. This workshop will explore how to be innovative within the bound of public service, using the very limits organizations operate under as a spur to creativity and identifying new ideas for solving old problems.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

In this interactive workshop participants will learn to overcome individual and organizational barriers to innovation. "Do more with less" has been the mantra for many government agencies over the last few years due to the economic and budgetary climate. Though the call is daunting, there is an element of creativity that comes into play when goals change and/or cuts are called for and existing processes and approaches are no longer sufficient. Finding the balance between respecting the tried-and-true, and moving the organization forward, lies at the heart of what makes innovation in public service both challenging and rewarding. This workshop will provide practical tools to find that balance.

OBJECTIVES:

- Create an innovative mindset towards problem solving
- Identify cultural elements in public service that serve to foster or inhibit innovation
- Learn to manage risk in pursuing innovative approaches
- Secure management support and commitment for new ideas

Course Topics

WHAT IS INNOVATION

- Defining innovation and creativity
- Tapping into our own experiences
- Demystifying creativity

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

A silo mentality is often the result when departments or sectors do not share information with others in the same organization, or across organizations that are working towards a shared goal. This mentality will reduce efficiency in the overall operation, reduce morale, and contribute to the demise of a productivity. Leaders have a responsibility to prepare and equip their teams with the proper mind-set to break down this destructive organizational barrier.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Silos form for seemingly legitimate reasons. People who perform like tasks and/or have similar skill sets are gathered together by their organization for increased efficiency and effectiveness. This logical structure, however, can inadvertently create an us vs. them mindset between different elements of the organization that should be working together. Many of the teambuilding challenges in organizations are not issues within particular teams, but rather the connection between the teams. Participants will learn a practical model for breaking down silos and have the opportunity to practice the skills to do so in the classroom setting.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the underlying causes of a silo mentality
- Learn how to address the issue on both an organizational and team level
 - Create a unifying vision
 - Motivate towards that vision
 - Collaborate and co-create for success

Course Topics

BUSINESS NEED:

Impostor syndrome referring to high-achieving individuals marked by an inability to internalize their accomplishments and a persistent fear of being exposed as a fraud. Despite external evidence of their competence, those exhibiting the syndrome remain convinced that they are frauds and do not deserve the success they have achieved. Proof of success is dismissed as luck, timing, or deceiving others into thinking they are more intelligent and competent than they believe themselves to be. As a consequence, individuals with this mindset may limit their visibility and their contributions, "hiding their light under a bushel" to the detriment of themselves and their organizations.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Participants will learn how to address and overcome this issue. There are many ways to address the impostor syndrome. At the heart of them all is the constant reminder to ourselves that it is better to be real than perfect. Being willing to admit challenges and shortcomings, in the context of the many great things we do and are capable of, demonstrates an openness that allows us to achieve our true potential. Participants will learn and be able to practice the ten key strategies for success.

MOTIVATING AND ENGAGING EMPLOYEES

Half Day

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

Supervisors have far more power to motivate and engage employees than they may believe. While the most lasting motivation comes from within, supervisors can create an environment in which people step into motivation and choose to maximize their engagement. Leaders do have the ability to motivate and inspire others to do great things. Individual leaders have the greatest impact on areas in their immediate working environments. When these leaders are successful in their smaller spheres, there is, by extension, a positive influence on the larger organization's results.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Far more than an academic exploration of motivation, the workshop will provide a set of practical tools and models that leaders can immediately apply in the workplace. The session will give leaders new insights to create and sustain the environment that fosters the self-motivation and engagement necessary for team and organizational success.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand their role as leaders in providing vision, visibility and momentum to create a self-motivating culture that leads to employee engagement

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

Research on emotional intelligence has shown that successful performance on the job is significantly impacted by the skills and attributes of emotional self-awareness, stress management, and the ability to pick up on social cues and build effective working relationships. While we may know the right thing to do in a given situation, we are often "hijacked" by our emotions in stressful situations and behave in ways that interfere with our own and our team's success.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Through Emotional Intelligence (EI) for Leadership and Self-Awareness, participants increase their understanding of emotional intelligence and learn how a greater awareness of EI increases their effectiveness as a leader, manager, and public servant. They explore the results of a behavioral-based personal EI assessment in relation to the five core competencies of EI, and then learn skills to apply their EI awareness in the workplace. The EI workshop covers both intrapersonal and interpersonal intelligence, the ability to understand the intentions, motivations, fears, and desires of others and self, and the impact of increased EI on our lives and the decisions we make.

OBJECTIVES:

- Discover what emotional intelligence is and why it matters
- Take the EQ-i 2.0 assessment and raise awareness of one's EI competencies

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) is a self-report personality inventory designed to give people information about their psychological type preferences. Isabel Myers and Katherine Cook Briggs began developing the MBTI in the early 1940s to make Carl G. Jung's theory of human personality understandable and useful in everyday life. The MBTI, and this workshop, reinforce the concept that every individual is unique.

The doctrine of uniqueness, however, gives no practical help in understanding the people whom participants must work with or interact with. Most of us tend to assume unconsciously that other people's minds work on the same principles as our own. But all too often, people do not reason the same way, do not value the same things, or are not interested in the same things. The assumption of similarity, therefore, can promote misunderstanding of the motives and behaviors of people who think differently from each other.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The value of personality theory is that it enables participants to expect differences in people and to cope with them more constructively than they otherwise could. This one-day workshop is designed to help participants explore the normal differences (and similarities) between people that contribute to workplace success.

OBJECTIVES:

- Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) instrument for understanding personality differences and preferences
- Understand individual MBTI results
- Understand the impact of personality on leadership style, effectiveness, and building stronger teams

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

The solutions to the problems that face organizations are largely found within the organizations themselves. There are individuals and teams within the organization who know what needs to be done yet whose voices often go unheard. How can great ideas be more effectively communicated? How can we better hear and understand the great ideas of others? If we can answer these questions we would markedly improve our workplaces.

"We just need to communicate better" has become a common lament in organizations. In fact, it's heard so often that poor communication starts to seem like something we just need to accept. No notion could be more dangerous. Our failure to hear and to be heard is at the heart of most organizational problems. This workshop was developed to provide individuals and teams with the communication tools necessary to achieve success.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Our Interpersonal Communication Workshop helps participants acquire new tools for effective interpersonal communications. A set of skills and tools are examined that can break through the barriers that typically restrict effective communications. While there is far more to clear communications than simply using a tool or following a checklist, an understanding of these communication-enhancing tools will minimize the likelihood of missed opportunities or miscommunications. Through discussion, practice, and interactive exercises participants will learn how to put these skills to use in creating an environment for effective communications to take place.

OBJECTIVES:

- Examine mental models and how they shape our view of the world
- Acquire new tools for effective interpersonal communications
- Learn the art and science of skillful discussion

We recommend a one-day workshop, or a two-hour online webinar. Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

We are overwhelmed with data. Rather than increasing understanding, too much data can instead obscure essential truths. Data isn't an end unto itself, but a means to an end. We use data effectively when we use it to tell a story, and to influence and persuade others. Storytelling allows others to gain insight from the data, not be stunned by it.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

It's all about the story. Participants will learn to identify the compelling narrative in the topic they're presenting and share that narrative with strong visuals, a clear structure, and in a manner that quickly captures people's attention. Overlaying that narrative with an understanding of audience needs allows the message to be heard and understood. A novice or generalist needs the story pitched at a different level than the expert or executive. Participants will learn that data must support the story and be presented clearly, compelling, and objectively. Using data selectively, or in support of a presupposed outcome, damages credibility and undermines both the presenter and the organization. Lastly, participants will learn the concept that "less is more" in telling the story and presenting the data to ensure key elements are clearly conveyed and readily remembered.

OBJECTIVES:

- Tap into the innate human desire to learn and communicate through story
- Present data in support of that story with clarity\Increase confidence in presenting complex subject matter

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

The cost of ineffective meetings is staggering, not only in terms of wasted time but also in terms of lost opportunities, employee frustration, and poor morale. Most managers say the meetings they attend generally take too long, cover too little or too much, and end without specific plans, objectives, decisions, outcomes, or results. Meetings are an important business function in that they get people together to share information, ideas, problems, activities, solutions, and feelings. However, poor meetings often have a negative impact and can make whatever problem they're supposed to address worse.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This workshop provides practical tools and skills for planning, leading, and participating in a meeting. Workshop participants will gain insight into how to craft a sound agenda, tap into the collective wisdom of the group to gather data, make decisions, and develop effective action plans to make the decisions reached in the meeting a reality. CHANGE MANAGEMENT FOR EMPLOYEES

2 Days

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

Individuals and organizations have a choice: they can simply survive organizational change or, with the right training and support, they can grow through change. Individuals can go through change and feel powerless, or they can go through change and learn to be more powerful. This workshop provides participants with the opportunity for growth and personal empowerment.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

One of the ways to ensure engagement and involvement is to remove as much of the mystery surrounding the change as possible. An understanding of change models and how change impacts people and organizations will help individuals make sense of confusing times. It allows people to be more patient and not feel overwhelmed by the change. Further, employees who understand and can deal with the inevitable stress associated with large change efforts are far more likely to remain productive and focused. This one-day workshop is focused on understanding — of change models, of how change effects people, of the sources of resistance, how to let go of issues and finally of how to stay productive in the midst of rapid change.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand transition models and how to recognize where you and the organization are in the change effort
- Understand resistance - recognize that responding to, reacting to, and resisting change are normal
- Gain insight from lessons learned in other transitions
- Recognize signs of stress in yourself and others and learn how to respond appropriately to that stress

- What can we bring from our past experience to apply to the current situation?

CHANGE AND TRANSITION

- Examine a model about dealing with change
- Understand the impact of "transition" on both organizations and individuals

- All resistance is not the same, nor should the response be the same
- Understand our own resistance to change and how to manage it

STAYING IN CONTROL

- Examine tools for feeling in control in the midst of change

MANAGING STRESS

- Change naturally brings about stress
- Managing stress is necessary to be successful in dealing with change

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

In order to take full advantage of teleworking, organizations need supervisors who can effectively create, manage, and lead telework teams. Much of the emphasis on creating telework programs has been on technology issues, particularly regarding connectivity and security of government information. However, a recent survey of federal chief information security officers showed that telework programs are not a security threat and do not hamper agencies' ability to meet Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA) mandates. The challenge, then, comes down to leadership.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Many front-line leaders are anxious and uncertain about telework programs, fearing loss of control over employees' daily work and lacking trust in their subordinates' ability to work without direct supervision. This workshop will focus on building the leadership skills, trust and confidence to manage a successful telework program.

OBJECTIVES:

- Gain tools to more effectively lead in a telework environment
- Raise "hot button" concerns managers have regarding telework and identify strategies to resolve telework problems
- Learn the four best practices of successful telework and how to apply them as a manager
- Establish effective communication protocols and strategies

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

When an employee fails to meet expectations, leaders typically put the responsibility for that failure on the employee. Often, that's appropriate. We rightly expect people to hold themselves accountable to performance expectations. However, it's important to acknowledge that sometimes the responsibility for that poor performance rests on the leader and not the employee. A lack of clear direction, insufficient resources, wrong person for the job, all of these can be laid at the feet of the leader. This session examines the leader's responsibility to identify the elements within their control and to address those elements. To do otherwise can, indeed, set an employee up for failure.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

If the Pygmalion effect describes the dynamic in which an individual lives up to great expectations, the set-up-to-fail syndrome explains the opposite. It describes a dynamic in which employees perceived to be mediocre or weak performers live down to the low expectations their managers have for them. The result is that they often end up leaving the organization, either of their own volition or not. This workshop provides insight into recognizing this pattern of behavior, and how to address it. Stepping into that responsibility can be challenging, but it is necessary for the good of both the team and the individual performer.

OBJECTIVES:

- Understand the self-fulfilling nature of the syndrome
- Identify and take steps to break the cycle of failure
- Put the onus for performance shortfalls where it belongs

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

The term micro-inequity was coined by MIT professor Dr. Mary Rowe, who used it to describe a pattern of negative, devaluing, and often semi-conscious messages sent from one person to another. There is a growing concern about the impact of microinequities on employee morale and productivity in the workplace. Micro-inequities inflict damage on a person's self-esteem, confidence, and performance. Once people lose their ability to be confident, they tend to lose the ability to do their best work.

Course Overview

BUSINESS NEED:

The nature of the marketplace has fundamentally changed many customer relationships. Organizations ready to move beyond seeing themselves purely as a provider of goods and services and more as a long-term partner with customers will have a marked advantage over their competitors by significantly deepening the customer relationship. While many organizations have grasped this new dynamic, they may lack the skills and tools to effectively serve as consultants.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

Course Description: This workshop explores the fundamental nature of consulting. Participants will learn the three fundamental skill sets of consulting, specifically:

- Alignment: establishing the customer/consultant relationship
- Discovery: gathering data to support appropriate recommendations
- Implementation: putting recommendations into action

They will have the chance to practice consulting skills in a safe workshop environment and receive detailed, specific feedback on their performance. Upon completion of the workshop participants will be able to enter into, manage, and conclude consulting projects of all degrees of complexity.

OBJECTIVES:

- Gain a basic understanding of what it means to be a consultant and what skills are necessary for success
- Learn how to deepen the relationship with clients using a proven consulting model
- Enhance communications and other inter-personal skills, including:
 - Listening
 - Skillful discussion
 - Effective presentations
 - Negotiations
 - Conflict management
 - Understanding change models

Assessment for Use In Workshops and Team Sessions

MBTI

MBTI Step 1

The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI)[®] is a self-report questionnaire designed to help individuals identify their preferences for information-gathering and decision-making. In particular, MBTI measures our preferences in four areas:

- Where we get our energy: Extraversion or Introversion
- How we prefer to take in information: Sensing or Intuition
- How we prefer to make decisions: Thinking or Feeling
- How we orient ourselves to the world: Perceiving or Judging

The MBTI provides insight into the normal differences between people. The MBTI is based on Carl Jung's theory of psychological types which explains some of the apparently random behavior differences in people. Although each individual is unique, these differences fall into patterns that we can see and understand. With this understanding, we gain insight into ourselves and into others. An abundance of research supports the use of the MBTI. No other indicator has been as thoroughly studied and tested for validity and reliability. The MBTI assesses preferences, not skills.

Requires certification to administer.

Pros: Widely recognized as reliable and valid, in common usage and, relatively quick to administer (20 minutes). Very "non-judgmental." All types are shown to have value and be appropriate in the workplace and in relationships.

Cons: Many people have taken it and feel jaded by it. Some participants will be looking for something "new."

MBTI Step II

The Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI)[®] Step II provides the same information shown above in Step I, along with additional depth and clarification within each of the four MBTI preference pairs. It identifies some of the unique ways individuals express their personality type by breaking each of the four preference pairs into five additional facets. These 20 facets help individuals understand their personality type more completely. Step II also clarifies the differences that are often seen between two persons of the same type.

As with MBTI Step I, the Step II can be used for personal growth, leadership development, coaching, and understanding team dynamics. It is particularly useful in working with individual and teams who are familiar with MBTI Step I and would like to expand their understanding of their personality type. It is also used to help individuals clarify their MBTI Step I best fit type.

Requires certification to administer.

Pros: Takes MBTI to the next level; can be helpful for those who want to learn more or are tired of taking Step I. Provides much more nuanced data.

Cons: Many people have taken it and feel jaded by it. Some participants will be looking for something "new."

EQ-I 2.0

Respondents complete an assessment that provides insight into key areas of emotional skill that relate directly to professional and personal effectiveness. There are five scales and fifteen subscales that are measured. The five scales are:

- Intrapersonal
- Interpersonal
- Stress management
- Adaptability
- General mood

The assessment identifies areas of strength that can be leveraged to achieve full potential. It also shows areas that need improvement and provides tools to address those areas. The Emotional Quotient Inventory (EQ-is) is the first scientifically validated and most widely used Emotional Intelligence assessment in the world.

The EQ-i 2.0 is a self-report assessment of 133 questions that takes approximately 20 minutes to complete.

Requires certification to administer

Pros: Takes MBTI to the next level; can be helpful for those who want to learn more or are tired of taking Step 1. Provides much more nuanced data.

Cons: Many people have taken it and feel jaded by it. Some participants will be looking for something "new."

EQ 360

The EQ 360 provides a more in depth analysis of the individual's emotional and social skill by having those people that work with the individual provide information on the five scales and fifteen subscales that are measured. This could include peers, direct reports, the boss, the boss's peers, family and friends. The observers ratings are compared to the results of the individual's standard EQ-i 2.0 selfreport for a more complete 360-degree view. The EQ-360 identifies key employee strengths that can be leveraged to the benefit of the organization, as well as impediments to high performance that could be improved.

EQ 360 is a new 360 assessment and a multi-rater survey of 133 questions.

Requires certification to administer.

Pros: Takes the standard EQ to the next level in providing input on how others see us. A much more thorough and comprehensive look at EQ and how we are perceived.

Cons: Requires multiple raters, each of whom will require 30 minutes to complete the survey. Can be a drain on a team that is taking this assessment, as it can quickly add up to several hours apiece as people complete their own and others assessments. As with the -basic" EQ, it has the potential to come across as punishing. Best done in a coaching one-on-one relationship rather than in the classroom.

THOMAS-KILMANN CONFLICT MODE INDICATOR (TKI)

TKI provides insight into our preferred method of dealing with conflict and deepens our understanding of why others may prefer a different approach. By knowing our personal preferences for addressing conflict, we are empowered to act counter to those preferences when the situation calls for it. The TKI model is based on a five-category scheme for classifying the following interpersonal conflict-handling modes:

- Competing
- Collaborating
- Compromising
- Avoiding
- Accommodating

The TKI has been used for more than 35 years and is the leading measure of conflict-handling behavior. The TKI assessment is a simple tool that provides practical situational approaches dealing with conflict. It takes approximately 20 minutes to complete.

Does NOT require certification to administer.

Pros: Relatively quick assessment. Can be a nice complement to MBTI if the facilitator is familiar with both instruments and can show how our type can play out in how we deal with conflict. Can be incorporated into a half-day workshop with ease. Very helpful for team understanding of one another.

Cons: Some participants find the categories off-putting (competing, accommodating, etc), although that is readily handled by a good facilitator.

Assessment for Use In Workshops and Team Sessions

DISC

The DISC Profile is a multi-purpose learning instrument that helps individuals assess to what degree they utilize each of four dimensions of behavior in a given situation. The instrument then provides feedback designed to help people in your organization to better understand themselves and their colleagues. The assessments classify four aspects of behavior by testing a person's preferences in word associations. DISC is an acronym for:

- Dominance — relating to control, power, and assertiveness
- Influence — relating to social situations and communication
- Steadiness — relating to patience, persistence, and thoughtfulness
- Conscientiousness — relating to structure and organization

The DISC is assessment focuses on a specific situation, such as work. The assessment takes approximately 20 minutes.

Does NOT require certification to administer.

Pros: Quick, easily done right in the classroom. Self-scored. Is a nice alternative to those who are tired of the MBTI. Can appear more immediately applicable to participants as it deals with communications and relationship challenges everyone faces and is familiar with.

Cons: Is becoming "common" and many will be familiar with it.

BIRKMAN

The Birkman Method assessment is a personality assessment designed to identify an individual's normal, interpersonal style of behaviors dealing with relationships and tasks. This assessment provides insight on underlying motivations and needs and the behaviors expressed when underlying motivation and needs are unmet. Interests serve as drivers to behavioral and occupational preferences. This extensive analysis combines motivational, behavioral, and interests in five major perspectives:

- Usual Behavior — an individual's behavioral style of dealing with relationships and tasks
- Underlying Needs — an individual's expectations of how relationships and social situations should be governed in context of the relationship or situation
- Stress Behaviors — an individual's ineffective style of dealing with relationships or tasks and behavior observed when underlying needs are not met
- Interests - an individual's expressed preference for job titles based on the assumption of equal economic rewards
- Organizational Focus - the perspective in which an individual views problems and solutions relating to organizational goals

Birkman method is a trait-based instrument that measures personality. This extensive instrument takes approximately 30 to 45 minutes to complete. The Birkman method is used for improving team dynamics, coaching, training, employee engagement, employee selection, and organizational alignment.

Requires certification to administer.

Pros: Very in-depth and comprehensive, using 298 questions. Best used, at least initially, in coaching vs. team settings. With familiarity, can then be used effectively in a team setting.

Cons: Done right, takes a long time to process. One-on-one coaching on the assessment itself can last up to a full day.

STRENGTHFINDERS 2.0

StrengthFinders is an assessment created by Gallup to measure an individual's talents. The assessment is based on the notion that people have more potential for growth when they invest their time and energy in developing their strengths. The concept allows individuals to uncover their top five talents from 34 themes of talents. This assessment helps individuals find the areas where they have the greatest potential to develop strengths.

StrengthFinders 2.0 is a well-known assessment that ranks in individuals strengths and talents. This assessment takes approximately 20 minutes.

Does NOT require certification to administer.

Pros: Very inexpensive and easy to administer. Participants pay for a book and get both the book and the assessment which they take online. Results are immediately available. Can be very affirming, in that it (as the title says) focuses on strengths. Can also be very helpful in a team setting as individuals gain insight into one another's strengths and how to leverage them.

Cons: Some may find it "soft" in that it focuses on strengths and not much on areas for improvement.

TRUE COLORS PERSONALITY TEST

The True Colors Test is a simple personality survey designed to can help individuals understand their own and others' personality and behaviors. It provides insights that allow the individual to better understand how others see them. The assessment takes Temperament Theory and applies it to color categories, then introduces the concept of a person's Color Spectrum - that each individual has a unique color order of the temperaments, including the intensity of each color. The assessment identifies the individual's strongest color and secondary color. The model has its origins in Temperament Theory. Temperament Theory also undergirds MBTI.

The assessment can stand alone or be woven into programs such as: team building, leadership, communication, interpersonal skills, conflict management, collaboration, etc.

Requires certification to administer.

Pros: Can be used as a shorthand alternative to MBTI. The four colors are easy to remember, and are less confusing (at least for those new to the model) than the sixteen MBTI types. As with MBTI, it is very non-judgmental. Each of the four colors has strengths needed in the workplace.

Cons: The use of the colors, while helpful as a memory aid, can come across as 'gimmicky' to some clients.

CI INTERNATIONAL MILE MARKER 360

CI has partnered with the Newmeasures to create a customized 360-degree assessment based on the CI Leadership Model and OPM's Executive Core Qualifications. 360-degree feedback is a method of systematically collecting opinions about an individual's performance from a wide range of coworkers. This can include peers, direct reports, the boss, or the boss's peers — along with people outside the organization, such as customers. The benefits of collecting data of this kind are that the person gets to see a panorama of perceptions rather than just self-perception, which affords a more complete picture. The Mile Marker 360-degree instrument provides a consistent reporting format to help organizations measure leadership development against OPM leadership competencies. It helps leaders understand areas of recognized and unrecognized genius, recognized opportunities for development, and blind spots. The assessment then presents these same areas of strength and opportunity within the framework of CI's leadership model, in which effective leadership occurs at the intersection of clear goals, strong relationships and effective communication.

This 360-degree assessment takes approximately 15 minutes to complete for the individual and the raters.

Certification is required to administer and provide feedback.

Pros: The Mile Marker 360 is designed specifically for federal agency leaders, and includes norm group comparisons only with others in the same agency, rather than with participants in outside organizations, including within the private sector. As with any 360, it provides insight from multiple perspectives. It can be processed in both an individual and group setting, but individual coaching is more effective. The survey takes less time to complete than many other assessments, and the results are presented in a clear and easy to understand manner. The framing of results against the CI Leadership Model and OPM's ECQs affords more specific opportunities for leadership development coaching.

Cons: If done in a team setting, it can involve an investment of time amounting to several hours for each team member.

CCL BENCHMARKS BY DESIGN

CI has partnered with the Center for Creative Leadership to administer and interpret 360-degree assessments. 360-degree feedback is a method of systematically collecting opinions about an individual's performance from a wide range of coworkers. This could include peers, direct reports, the boss, or the boss's peers — along with people outside the organization, such as customers. The benefits of collecting data of this kind are that the person gets to see a panorama of perceptions rather than just self-perception, which affords a more complete picture. CCL 360-degree instruments provide a consistent reporting format to help organizations create a common leadership language and consistent feedback process at multiple levels throughout the organization. This assessment provides feedback on core competencies along with written feedback on the individual's areas of strengths and areas of weaknesses. This 360-degree assessment takes approximately 30 minutes to complete for the individual and the raters.

Certification is required to administer and provide feedback.

Pros: The Benchmarks by Design can be customized to address an organization's core competencies, so it feels very focused on the needs of a particular organization. As with any 360, it provides insight from multiple perspectives. Can be processed in both an individual and group setting, but individual coaching is more effective. Results are presented in a clear and easy to understand manner.

Cons: Many find the number of questions to be cumbersome. If done in a team setting, it can involve an investment of time amounting to several hours for each team member.

SKILLSCOPE 360

SKILLSCOPE is a 360 assessment that assesses fifteen job- related skills that are essential for supervisor or manager success. This is a straightforward feedback tool that identifies relevant managerial strengths and weaknesses. The fifteen job- related skills fall under the following categories:

- Information Skills
- Decision-Making
- Interpersonal Skills
- Personal Resources
- Effective Use of Self

The SKILLSCOPE 360 is a quick, simple assessment that focuses on key supervisory skills. This 360 takes approximately 20 minutes to complete by the individual or raters.

Certification is required to administer and provide feedback.

Pros: Assesses topics similar to the CCL Benchmarks by Design, but is quicker and easier to administer. As with any 360, it provides insight from multiple perspectives. Can be processed in both an individual and group setting, though individual coaching is more effective. Results are presented in a clear and easy to understand manner.

Cons: Can't be modified, although the questions address the most common leadership competencies. Although shorter by comparison to other 360s, it can still be cumbersome. If done in a team setting, it can involve an investment of time amounting to several hours for each team member.
