Who We Are

CI International's customized consulting, coaching, and learning & development transforms our clients' priorities, people, processes, and perspectives in service of their mission. With an approach that leans on listening, places partnership over predetermined solutions, and has, at its core, both a kindness and a compelling candor, we guide organizations and individuals as they work to understand where they are and where they're going – helping identify obstacles and opportunities, chart the course forward, and take the right steps to get there.
